THE BOY'S CASE DELAYED.

BUT DELAY NOW WILL ONLY RENDER JUSTICE MORE CERTAIN.

Scale Shephurd's Friends Must Win, with Right Upon Their Side-Letters Which Tell of Many Hearts Touched by the Story of His Banishment and His Grand-

There has been an unavoidable delay in the progress of the Josie Shephard case. But as justice is on the orphan boy's side, his case can not fail to grow stronger day by

As to the court proceedings, after a consultation of counsel it appeared that recent statutes had modified the law of 1857, regarding the right of the public to inspect the ords of the institution. The assurances of Mr. Theron G. Strong, counsel for the opposition, was given, however, that he would co-operate with THE EVENING WORLD in the matter in securing for it the information which is desired. In view of this disposition on the part of the asylum representative, the cation for a mandamus will be suspended for the present.

Whatever delay may have been caused it will not interfere in any way with the main et of the efforts of THE EVENING WORLD, which is to bring back little Josie Shephard to his friends and relatives in this city. He was sent away under a misapprehension of facts and he should be restored to his family.

Meanwhile the interest which has already been aroused in his behalf will increase, been aroused in his behalf will increase. The committee of the asylum which was to have considered the case last evening postponed the hearing for a week at the request of the counsel in the case. Many of the committeemen are now out of town, and nextweek the matter will be brought up before a full meeting of the Board. Several of the members of the committee who were visited yesterday expressed themselves as ready to return the boy to his friends here, and there seems to be a good prospect that, as soon as all the facts in the case can be presented, the committee will not hesitate to restore the child at once.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Letters Which Show that the Popular Heart Is Moved. The Agitation Will Be Kept Up.

To the Editor of The Evening World:

I hope The Evening World will keep up its agitation for the return of the poor boy Josie Shephard. Don't be discouraged if you Josie Shephard. Don't be discouraged if you meet with obstacles. I know from a bitter experience that it is one of the most difficult things to secure the surrender of a ward of an asylum. The law seems to be made chiefly for the benefit and convenience of the managers of such institutions. But with justice on your side, as it certainly is in this case, there is no such word as fail,

No Time Should Be Lost.

The case of Josie Shephard is the talk of all Harlem. The demand for THE EVENING Worth is so great that it is impossible to obtain a copy at the stands hereabouts. I hope that the Indenture Committee, which is composed of high-minded and justly disposed gentlemen, will lose no time in rebuking the carelessness and hard-heartedness of Bupt. E. D. Carpenter and restoring the boy to his friends and relatives.

A Strong Case.

If the directors of the Juvenile Asylum will consider the strong and invincible array of fact and argument presented for the return of Josie Shephard and afterwards experience the pathetic spell of that beautiful melody, "Bring Back My Exiled Boy," they cannot hesitate as to their duty in the premises.

Some Valuable " Pointers." To the Editor of The Evening World :

Don't let up on the crusade against the infamost action of Supt. E. D. Carpenter in the Josie Shephard case. There are extraordinary and most incredible facts about his official conduct in the asylum and out of it, of which you have not given as yet a glimpie.

I venture to inclose herewith some valuable "pointers." The statements made are absolute facts which you can easily verify.

The Argument of Music.

Permit me to congratulate THE EVENING World for bringing to the aid of its rightcous endeavor to secure the return of the orphan boy Josie Shephard the graceful and moving argument of music. The words and melody of the song, "Bring Back My Exiled Boy," can not full to awake a responsive chord of sympathy in the breast of every lover of music and justice, Seo, A. RICHARDSON,

POLICEMEN'S MANY ILLS.

They Are Not All Such as Fill Up the Sick Lint. That there should be an average of eightyeight policemen on the sick-list constantly out of a total force of 8,232 men, as shown in the police report for the fiscal year just completed, has caused much remark. The men are subjected to a rigid physical examination when they become applicants for appointment, and the force may be fairly lassed as perfectly constituted physically. Why should sickness be so prevalent among these stalwart men? A cursory examination of the hours of duty of a patrolman will in part answer the question. An EVENING WORLD reporter, ponder-tion. An EVENING WORLD reporter, pondering over the report, asked the first patrolman he met: "Why is there so much sickness among the members of the force?"

"Now you are like everybody else," he replied. "Folks think a policeman draws big pay and is only an ornament to the street corner. Most of the men who want to get on the force have no idea of the amount of work they will be called upon to do. If they did they would withdraw their applications.
"I began work Monday morning at 6 o'clock. I went on the dog watch till 8 o'dlock. The other section of my squad did reserve duty in the station. I had from 8 to 9.30 to get my breakfast. buch events take up an average of 1,440 hours each year, or four hours of each day. That leaves me at best only seven hours and forty minutes in each twenty-four hours for sleep and recreation, and that time is so cut up into small bits that a policeman may be aid truthfully never to have a full night's rest. People think that if a policeman wants to get off for a day all he has to do is to plead sickness, get his day off, and draw his pay while he loafs. But there is a police phy sician for each two precincts, and a man who thinks he is sick must obtain a certificate, after a thorough examination, that he is unfit for duty. Then he may go home and be for duty. Then he may go home and be sick, but he gets only half pay during his sickness.

THEIR ANNUAL MEETING OPENED AT THE MADISON SQUARE THEATRE.

An Important Point to Be Discussed-How the Order Has Grown and Spread-The Exalted Officers-General Notes on the Attendance and Plans for the Three Days

A crowd of men with a July warmth of expression, and a general alertness, were gathered about the Madison Square Theatre this morning at 10 o'clock.

They were not ticket-speculators nor would-be spectators of the evening performance waiting for tickets.

The assemblage was of members of the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks. The name is long enough to boast of a perspective, but the charity of the organization is quick and strong.

Mr. Palmer has kindly loaned the Elks his theatre for this, their annual meeting. Two or three hundred delegates were on hand and made a good showing in the parquet. Dr. Hamilton E. Leech, Exalted Grand Ruler, presided as chairman of the meeting.

The Alexander Medicine Co.'s Proposition to the N. Y. County Medical Society.

The Alexander Medicine Co., of 14th st. and 6th ave., offers to put $5,000 in the hands of the editor of a repre sentative journal, to be given to the Manhattan Kye and Ear Hospital if, using only Alexander's Cholera Infantum Cure and Alexander's Cholera Morbus Cure, they fail to cure a single case of the next twenty cases of cholers infantum or cholera merbus occurring in the New York Orphan Asylum, provided the Medical Society will appoint a committee of three physicians from its own membership, one of the three to be named by the company; said committee to watch the treatment and make public report of the result in each case; and provided also the editor of the said journal will publish in his paper a fair report of seach case experately. This proposition should be accepted, for, in case of failure, a worthy ebarity gets $5.000, and in case of success, it introduces to the public a remedy that, curing in every case, will reduce to a marvellous extent the city's frightful infant death rate (I, 418 in a single month) from summer complaints, or eweep it entirely away, thus saving annually thousands of lives. cure a single case of the next twenty cases of choler
